SPECIAL GUEST SPEAKERS

Barry Katz was born in Longmeadow, Massachusetts and graduated from Boston University with a degree specializing in working with the disabled. Katz started his "alternative" career as a stand-up comic in Beantown, and it was there that he performed with such established artists as Denis Leary, Bob Goldthwait, and Steven Wright; while also managing various comedy clubs in the New England area for over a decade. In the early 90's, he decided to quit performing and move to New York City, opening up the Boston Comedy Club in Greenwich Village, while simultaneously starting his own management company that immediately landed 4 clients on Saturday Night Live. He has produced several films including Employee of the Month (with Cook), Good Luck Chuck (with Jessica Alba), and My Best Friend's Girl (with Kate Hudson). Additionally, he has created three television shows (ABC's The Next Best Thing, NESN'S Comedy All-Stars, and the FOX sketch pilot Naked But Funny), and has executive produced over 50 different TV specials, documentaries, reality programs, and scripted shows including NBC's Whitney, Fox's Action, HBO's Tourgasm, History Channel's Houdini: Unlocking the Mystery, TBS's Frank TV, BET/Centric's Mr. Box Office, Showtime's Bill Bellamy: Crazy, Sexy, Dirty, and 7 seasons of the Emmy nominated NBC series Last Comic Standing.

A.D. Calvo

Calvo was born in Buenos Aires and moved to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, when he was four. In 1974, his family relocated to the United States. Calvo's early filmmaking and screenwriting efforts gained the praise and support of Oscar-nominated producers Howard and Karen Baldwin, and Grammy-winning musician Michael Bolton. All three were executive producers on his feature film debut, The Other Side of the Tracks, a romantic thriller shot in Connecticut during the summer of 2007 and picked up by Showtime (TV network). Calvo has since gone on to produce and direct three other features: The Melancholy Fantastic, House of Dust, and The Midnight Game. <http://www.goodnightfilm.com/>

Colin Theys

Colin turned a love of movies, obsession with technical geekery, and acting hobby into a career making films. As a student, he made several award-winning CGI animations and VFX-driven short films. Since graduating from Wesleyan University in 2007, he has been working with Connecticut-based independent production company Synthetic Cinema International.

In 2011, Colin directed Steve Niles' Remains, the first original feature for NBCUniversal's Chiller Network. He has since directed two additional features for the network: Dead Souls and Deep in the Darkness, both based on novels by Michael Laimo. In 2012, he produced Chilling Visions: 5 Senses of Fear and in 2013, will produce Animal for Synthetic Cinema and Drew Barrymore's Flower Films.
